Part-time Position:
International Development Studies

The International Development Studies Program at Saint Mary’s University is seeking a qualified instructor for the following graduate course for the first semester (September-December) of academic year 2016-2017. This position is part-time and is governed by the terms and conditions of the Saint Mary’s Collective Agreement with CUPE 3912.

Project Management
(IDST 4844/6644.1, Tuesday 14:30-17:00)

This is the IDS MA Program’s graduate-level course on project management. The course will focus on introducing students to a variety of advanced tools and techniques commonly used in the design, monitoring and evaluation of international development projects. Using international development project management concepts and techniques, students will learn how to plan and implement project activities, work with project teams, handle budgets and financial reporting, and report to, and interact with, project stakeholders, including funding agencies. Students will be provided with the basics of the following: methodologies to be used in working with a broad range of project stakeholders, identifying potential project partners, how to write proposals for funding agencies, the use of logic models in both the design and the evaluation of international development projects, and acquisition of the organizational and communications skills needed to manage an international development project.

Qualifications for this position are extensive training and/or consulting in project management, monitoring and evaluation, extensive experience teaching IDS or IDS-related courses, and excellent teaching evaluations. Candidates with experience teaching International Development Studies courses are preferred. A PhD or ABD is preferred. However, an MA will be given serious consideration if the applicant is particularly well-qualified. The applicant must provide a letter of application, an up-to-date CV, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of successful teaching. The selection committee will begin looking at applications beginning June 6th, 2016 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. Applications should be sent by email or regular post to:
